POMONA VALLEY ART ASSOCIATION

SEPT 2015

PVAA Presents Art Master Class on Color Theory

October 24th 1:00 to 3:00p.m.
At the Gallery SOHO

The cost is $20 for non-members and $15 for members. For which you will receive instruction on how color theory can improve your artwork, a Perceptual Color Corona and a critique on how color theory can help a piece you are currently working on. So bring your unfinished or almost finished pieces.

This instruction can be adapted to any medium, technique or style. The more different the artworks are for the critique the more valuable the time will be for everyone, as cross fertilization can be a spring board for all sorts of new projects.

Association 'DAY OF ART' Creation in Ice House Canyon.

Ice House Canyon's trailhead is accessible and there is a stream and picnic tables right there at the entrance. There is also a hiking trail for those who wish to be more adventurous.

There is a parking lot but every vehicle will need a National Forest Pass so I would suggest carpooling with those who have one. For those who are 62 and older the lifetime pass is available at any National Forest Service office for only a $10 processing fee and is good through out the United States.

PVAA Member, Arlene Moreno, Displays Colorful Mural Work at Hughes Community Center.

Arlene Moreno and prominent Claremont artist, Linda Garcia worked in tandem to create the mural at Alexander Hughes Community Center in Claremont. The large mural measures 7 ft. x 17 ft. and can be seen in the center entertainment lounge.

The mural and art exhibition is sponsored by the City of Claremont in conjunction with the Claremont Museum of Art and Claremont Graduate University Art Business/Art Management Public Art Program.

Arlene Moreno is a local award winning artist and has been a visual artist all of her life. Favorite subjects to paint are usually organic or nature inspired such as water moving over rocks, a hummingbird at a cactus blossom or a landscape capturing an atmospheric moment.

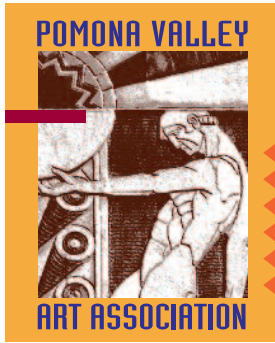

Arlene has focused on watercolor painting for the past seven years. Arlene states that she enjoys watercolor for its spontaneity and for the rich colors she is able to apply to her paintings.

THANKS!

PVAA would like to thank Michael Hale for his generous donation for all the awards and ribbons for the Young Artist Show.
